About the Conference

The conference will focus on understanding the unique social and emotional skills exhibited by individuals with ASD. Our speakers will present on the underlying neural mechanisms in these skills, how to create a supportive school environment for students with a range of social and emotional skills, and how to identify and address anxiety in individuals with ASD. In the afternoon, attend the breakout session of your choice:

- Interventions for Parenting Stress, or
- Changing the School Culture for Students with Autism: The Project Outreach Effect.

The day will wrap up with a panel of adults with ASD from across the state talking about independence and self-advocacy, facilitated by an expert in this area. Questions? Contact program manager Amanda Bergeron by phone at 205-348-9966 or by email at abergeron@ccs.ua.edu.
